Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh undergoing major renovations to match its consistent service and pure hospitality

Situated on the fringes of 'Tala' village, India's famous wildlife centre Bandhavgarh Nation Park, Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh has started work on renovations and is in the process of upgrading the resort during the annual closure period.

The newly renovated Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh will re-open for the coming season in October 2009 and will feature larger grounds, new swimming pool, new spa, and a yoga room. The upgraded rooms with fresh interiors, new furniture & fittings, new floorings, updated lighting have recently been completed. The renovated modern bathrooms will add a touch of luxury.

"The whole resort will have a fresh new look and facilities to match, landscaping will also be part of our renovations", says Shailendra Tiwari, Owner and Managing Director of Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh.

While the planned renovations will update Tiger's Den Resort, Bandhavgarh, the focus will also be on keeping the resort's green and tranquil surroundings.

"Tiger's Den Resort is unique in this world of modern travel and an integral part of the local wildlife conservation community," says Shailendra. "We are dedicated to keeping the resort's well respected hospitality and service, while giving our guests more modern facilities."

Represented and marketed in Europe and United Kingdom by Boutique Luxury Escapes Marketing, Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh offers wildlife jungle safaris with accommodations. "We are really excited about the renovation says Anita Niegsch, Managing Director of Boutique Luxury Escapes Marketing. "The guests gather around the bon-fire at Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh and enjoy delicious Indian and Continental cuisine, warm hospitality, local folk dance show's and exchange notes on Tiger tales with the naturalist guide and fellow travellers. We have no doubt that these renovations will offer more facilities to enjoy and enhance the authentic wildlife safari experience."

Although Bandhavgarh is a relatively small park in the last few years this former game reserve has become one of India's most prominent National Parks. The major reason for all the interest is Bandhavgarh's high density of tigers, which roam the mixed forests of sal and bamboo in search of an easy kill. The tigers have not only bolstered the local population by breeding successfully, they have also brought international media attention to the park and the plight of the Royal Bengal Tiger.

Situated on doorstep of Bandhavgarh National Park 'The Land of White Tigers' in a local village 'Tala', Tiger's Den Bandhavgarh offers you a location advantage that no other resort in the area does. This small boutique resort was designed, conceptualized and is managed by professionals from the hotel industry. The elegantly appointed 20 cottages with verandas and luxurious bathrooms are set amidst the beautiful lush and tranquil surroundings overlooking the gigantic hills of Vindhyaachal ranges.

The 'Sita Madhi' restaurant with Indian and Continental cuisine; and barbeques by the bon-fire at 'Gazebo' are already legendary and caters for the guests dining experience. Wind down with a book from the library, be fascinated by a wildlife film show, slide show or tribal dance at 'Aangan Amphitheatre or just relax in the veranda of your cottage. Choose to trace the tiger and wildlife during a morning or afternoon safari in the Bandhavgarh National Park in either 4 x 4 jeeps or sitting comfortably in a 'howdah' on an elephant guided by an experience Mahout. Take a stroll around the beautiful landscapes of Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh, accompanied by the resident naturalist, learn about medicinal plants & Indian Mythology, drive up to Bandhavgarh Fort, walk to the Baghel Museum, go bird watching, enjoy nature walks or visit the local village where time stands still.

This is a resort, which has redefined 'Service Quality', where the entire team is motivated and focussed in providing consistent service that the guests certainly deserve.

Renovations are expected to be completed by September 2009. The resort will remain closed during the improvements and guests will be able to experience the upgraded facilities along with the service and hospitality they have come to expect from Tiger's Den Resort Bandhavgarh from October 2009 onwards when it re-opens for the coming season.
